Exciting News in LOC Training - IN THIS ISSUE Dr. Sharron Noone is Back! One of LOC's most requested and highest-rated instructors is returning to teach her popular "Elements of Effective Supervision" workshop in Sherwood on December 1, 2, 8 and 9. This two-part, four-day course focuses on a performance management system that addresses major concerns in the public sector, including: the eight points of supervision practice that improve performance and reduce liability; effective attention for both excellent and struggling employees; and goal and feedback systems that improve performance. Cost for LOC members is $400 if registered before November 17. Registration for LOC in-person trainings is available at www.orcities.org/training. As new trainings are added, updated information will be available on the LOC website

Budgeting Basics Training Scheduled for December 14 in Salem Whether you are an elected official or city staff, the League's "Budgeting Basics" training - scheduled for December 14 in Salem - is for you. Attendees will learn the fundamentals of Oregon budget law, the goals of a budget, do's and don'ts and more. The course will include a review of sample budgets and mandatory budget documents, as well as hands-on budget practice. Budget season is right around the corner and LOC only offers this popular training this time of year. Cost is $150 for LOC members who register prior to November 30. Registration for LOC in-person trainings is available at www.orcities.org/training. As new trainings are added, updated information will be available on the LOC website.
